Artist Statement

Lindsay Bogart

As an artist and a designer my focus is always on usability. Is this designed, laid-out, in such a way that it is the easiest for the intended audience to understand? This is my goal when I start a new project. In particular, I find myself always obsessing over spacing of objects and text on a page. I do this not simply because it will create a better and crisper end result, but because I feel from experience that if you look at a design where some placement is off, you end up spending the whole time focused on that rather than the information the artist is trying to get across. So while of course color, imagery, and other factors are very important for drawing the audience in, I will always focus equally, if not more effort simply on the spacing within my pieces.

The Facts About Bipolar Disorder

Bipolar Disorder is a mood disorder that causes rapid swings in mood and behavior. It is classified into different groups. The two main groups are Bipolar I Disorder and Bipolar II Disorder.

Bipolar I      Bipolar II

Bipolar I disorder is the most severe form. It is classified by both severe bouts of depression as well as periods of mania.

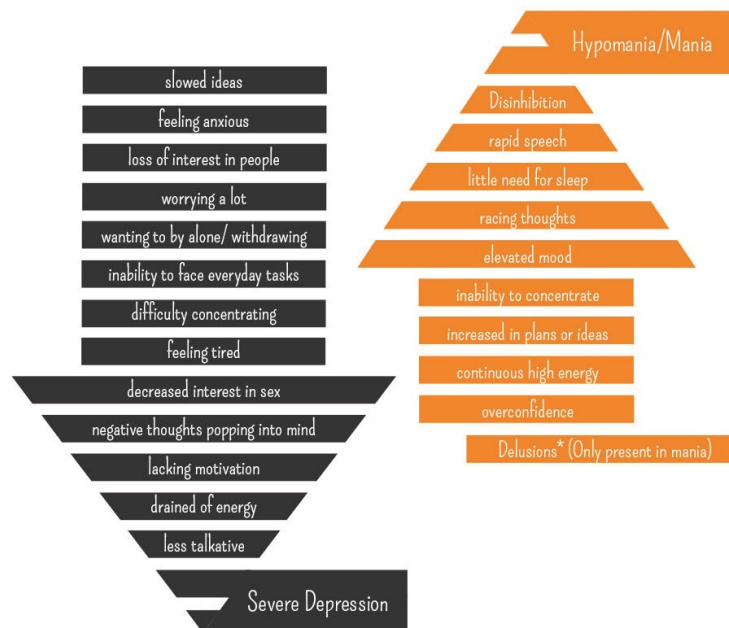

Bipolar II Disorder differs from Bipolar I Disorder because although both share episodes of severe depression, those who have Bipolar II don't experience full mania. They only experience a lesser hypomania.

What's the difference between MANIA and HYPOMANIA?

Symptoms are more severe and can include delusions

Symptoms are less severe and DO NOT include delusions
