

As the probe on a John Deere Synchronous Crop Thinner touches a plant, a knife swings, clearing out excess plants, one of which appears in the right foreground.