Lending helping hands

Above are just a portion of the 75 people who gathered at the R. W. Moine farm three miles south of Lingle Sunday to harvest a 28 acre field of beets. Mr. Moine, [in left front with white shirt] 55, had a heart attack 12 years ago, a stroke six years ago and will enter an Scottsbluff hospital now for a complete hip replacement. His neighbors completed the job in four and one-half hours using seven toppers, eight diggers and 30 trucks.
