Teenagers Survive Train-Car Crash

JODI L. DAVIS, 16, DRIVER OF THIS AUTO, and her brother, Grant E. Davis, 14, both of East Longmont, luckily escaped serious injury after their car collided with a Great Western switch engine about 7:50 a.m. today. The mishap occurred about two and a half miles east of Interstate 25 and five miles north of Highway 66 on Weld County Road 13. Jodi and Grant were taken by ambulance to Weld County General Hospital in Greeley, where she was admitted for observation with multiple cuts and abrasions, and Grant was released after being treated for contusions. The state patrol reported that the Davis vehicle was northbound on Road 13 and collided with the train engine as it was crossing the road. Damage to the car was listed at $1,800, and $50 to the engine. Above, Patrolman Patrick Kistler and Cecuk Sterling of Johnstown, a wrecker service man, survey the wreckage of the car.
