ONE-TENTH OF ONE PER CENT of the world's population employed on American farms uses huge, expensive machines like these to feed more than 25 per cent of the world's population. Tom Dunn, general manager of Walker Farm Implement of Kelim, arranged a farm equipment display on the Loveland Drug parking lot earlier this week to show people how much the machinery costs. The display was first prompted by a Beet Growers Association meeting Tuesday evening at the Home State Bank.
