Rachel Lind

Art has been a driving force in my life for as long as I can remember. From a very young age I decided that I was going to spend my life creating art and was determined to make a career out of it. I was introduced to graphic design by my Jr. High computer teacher and fell in love with the idea of creating art that embodies a company as a whole. I loved idea that art that could be seen around the world by millions of people every day. This introduction to the design world paved my way to a great exploration of the many different types of graphic design.

Through out my college career I have had the pleasure of creating a body of work that I believe captures my abilities as a designer. Most of my pieces are created in Adobe Illustrator as well as some mixed media. The classes that I have completed for my concentration have furthered my understanding of the visual communication of graphic design as well as the language that defines it.

Many of the pieces that I have included in my portfolio are brightly colored with innovative imagery that I hope enables these pieces to capture the viewer's eye. One of the posters that I have created that has a great deal of meaning to me is "3RachelLindGraphicDesign2013". This poster, a Cardiovascular Research poster for CSU, was assigned around the same time that my grandmother had a heart attack. I used old clock pieces that my grandma had given me to create an image of a heart that speaks to the idea of our hearts being an internal clock.

I have enjoyed my time at CSU learning many new things and talking with other artists. I will miss my days of college but am very excited to start my new life as a college graduate.

HOW TO SURVIVE
THE END OF THE UNIVERSE
by Andrew Grant
This year will be a doozy for doomsayers. Depending on the prophecy, the world is predestined to expire by means of a solar storm, asteroid strike, rogue-planet collision, plague, falling stars, earthquake, debt crisis, or some combination thereof. Of course, nobody seems to be preparing for any of those impending 2012 apocalypses, with the exception of a porn studio reportedly building a cloth-ing-optional underground bunker.
And why should we? Scientifically speaking, the prophecies are strictly ballyhoo. Physicists can do a lot better. When it comes to end-times scenarios, cosmological data-crunchers have at their disposal far more meaningful prognostication tools that can tell us how it's really going to end—not just Earth, but the whole universe. Best of all, they can tell us how to survive it...
