Keeping the Olympics Out of Colorado

by Timothy Lange/AFS

The Colorado Springs City Faculty Senate held its first regular meeting on Friday, Oct. 13, 1972, at 10:30 a.m. in Dwire Hall Auditorium. Thirty-eight members were present.

In the preliminary procedure, Professor Jack Sherman called the meeting to order. He reported that some students had requested to be present at the meeting. Request was granted.

The minutes of the April 7, 1972, meeting were approved.

Professor Null agreed to be parliamentarian.

The Committee Reports followed.

Student Affairs: Gail Berardi inquired about the appeal nature of the Student Affairs Committee. It was reported that the Faculty Senate Constitution described that committee as having that function. She requested that the faculty elect one representative to the Joint Board to replace one of the two Student Affairs faculty committee members.

Minority Affairs: Professor Hostetter reported efforts to progress in locating names of women and minority candidates for faculty positions. A memo will be circulated to faculty members the week of Oct. 16.

Professor Stanbrough gave a brief summary of Affirmative Action report due HEW Nov. 15. HEW findings report will be available in 113A Manor for those who wish to read it. Faculty requested that Professor Stanbrough look into the amount this campus received from federal contracts.

Space Allocation: Professor Gage reported that this committee considers all space needs and requirements on this campus, and passed out guidelines on "How to Request Space."}

Cultural Committee Moves
Into High Gear

Allen Ginsberg: November 16

In a dazzling burst of speed following the cancellation of Angela Davis, the Cultural Committee announced on Thursday, November 4, that the celebrated poet and lecturer, Allen Ginsberg, will be appearing in a benefit performance on November 16.

He will be appearing in company with Baba Ramdas, the author of "Be Here Now," in behalf of a Meditation Center in Boulder. Scheduled for Carpenter's Hall, 9 E. Costilla, the event will be open to the public with a general admission price of $2.75 cents for UCSS students, 8 p.m. Tickets are available on a first-come, first-serve basis from the Student Relations Joint Board office, Room 315 in the Classroom Building, from 11:00 a.m. to 1:00 p.m. Monday through Friday. Further information can be obtained by calling Carol Bradford at 598-3737, extension 359, or at 475-2541.

LETTER TO THE EDITOR

This is to formally extend a note of thanks to several people who volunteered their services to the Speakers Bureau to make the Julian Bond appearance the overwhelming success it was.

To Carol Bradford, I wish to offer an extremely warm word of thanks for all her efforts in assuring that the auditorium was in A-1 condition for the address, and especially for allowing herself to be subjected to the "physical violence" of having to monitor the door to the auditorium. She performed beautifully, and her donation of time, effort, and nervous energy will not be forgotten.

To Bob Kane, I also owe a debt of gratitude. His organization and direction of the many "volunteers" who helped straighten up the auditorium was a magnificent display of organizational cooperation.

Again, thank you.

-Joe Ronaghan

In Califomia

by Dennis Briskin/AFS
SAN FRANCISCO, Calif.—California is shortly to become the first state to vote on marijuana. During the Nov. 7 election, the state’s voters will be asked to decide on a proposal to remove criminal penalties for anyone 18 or older for “planting, cultivating, harvesting, drying, processing, otherwise preparing, transporting, or possessing marijuana for personal use.” The measure also prohibits “persons under the influence of marijuana from engaging in conduct that endangers others.” Selling would remain illegal.

That’s it. Otherwise, you’ll be able to grow your own in California. If it passes. An early-September poll showed only 33 percent support for the California Marijuana Initiative (CMI). There is strong support for the measure in northern California, particularly in the San Francisco Bay Area, but half the state’s 10 million population is concentrated in highly conservative Los Angeles, San Diego and Orange counties.

CMI’s organizers, a loose collection of lawyers, doctors, drug experts and other volunteers, think the outcome is still uncertain.

Gordon Brownell, the Initiative’s political co-ordinator, believes the polls don’t accurately represent popular opinion on marijuana. “A lot of people who will vote for the measure don’t want to say so to interviewers,” he says. CMI is counting on the so-far-unrevealed support they’re sure is out there.

Win or lose, the Marijuana Initiative has already made an impressive showing. In four months its 20,000 volunteers collected 380,000 valid signatures, 50,000 more than the minimum needed to put the measure on the ballot.

CMI has also gained endorsements from a wide variety of organizations, including the California and San Francisco Bar Associations, the Democratic Central Committees of Los Angeles, San Francisco and Sacramento, the ACLU, the San Francisco Deputy Sheriffs Coalition and the San Francisco Police Officers for Justice.

All of this was done with very little money. Of the estimated $40,000 spent to get the measure on the ballot, most came from small contributions. The largest single source of funds, approximately $15,000, has been Amorphia, a non-profit co-operative working for reform of marijuana laws.

Amorphia raises its money by selling cigarette papers under the brand name “Acapulco Gold.” The papers are distributed nationally and billed as “the only papers made from pure hemp fiber from marijuana stalks.” In the year ending May 1, Amorphia had gross sales of $100,000 from the papers.

Amorphia’s activities have not been limited to California. It was active in the unsuccessful efforts to qualify marijuana reform initiatives in Washington, Oregon, Arizona and Michigan.

Michael Aldrich, Amorphia’s co-director and editor of The Marijuana Review, believes what is happening now in California will have tremendous impact on the rest of the country.

“Twenty states now have the initiative as a means for changing the law,” he says. “Marijuana could be on the ballot in ten or 12 of them in the next few years. And the issue has wider appeal than most people think.”

CMI’s Brownell echoes Aldrich’s thoughts. “Even if we don’t win, it will still be a victory. We took a so-called ‘freak issue,’ (smoking pot), and legitimized it. We put it before the public and won endorsements. If we don’t make it this year, it will be an issue again in ’74. It will come of age eventually.”

As California goes...
More than a million GI Bill trainees will receive checks worth nearly $450 during November as a result of an increase in their educational assistance allowances approved by the President on Oct. 24.

Administrator of Veterans Affairs Donald E. Johnson said that VA computer personnel are making every effort to overcome the necessary changes to get the checks out near the first of the month.

Because the new law permits the Veterans Administration to make the monthly payments to students in advance rather than at the end of the month, both November checks will include the payment which was due at the end of the month under the old system. The increases are retroactive to September first so those who are enrolled in September and continue in school through October 24 will receive the difference between the old and new rates for any part of September they were attending school.

Students need not contact VA if they are already being paid under the GI Bill students, Johnson emphasized. Those who are already certified by their schools will receive the higher payments automatically.

December checks and all subsequent checks will be paid at the new rate. The new rates start at $220 per month for single trainees.

The new rates for 30 days after a start date will vary by students as follows:

- $298 and $18 a month more for single trainees.
- Those with two dependents will get $321 and $27 a month more.
- Those with one dependent will get $261 and $26 a month more.

The new rates were effective under the program during Fiscal Year 1973.

Widows of male veterans, those 75 years of age or older and all female veterans who need it and have lost their ability to take care of themselves will receive the higher payments automatically.

Those with two dependents will get $321 and $27 a month more.

To school full time. Those with one dependent will get $261 and $26 a month more.

The increase is also available with information bulletins describing the Graduate College and the Graduate School. But ETS said GRE scores are not included in the locater service and that a student need not take the exams in order to participate in the locater service.

The New Impotence

by Marty Schiffmann/AFS

"new impotence," sometimes called man’s answer to women’s liberation, continues to get more and more publicity. The latest media discussion of the problem occurred in the October Esquire, the "magazine for men." In an analytical look at causation, writer Philip Noble gives primary emphasis to the over-assertiveness of sexual liberality. For example, "The "new impotence,"" Noble states that the future might hold even more terrifying changes in human sexual patterns than impotence. For example, it is now believed that only societal taboos prevent more women from behaving sexually like higher female primates. Such behavior was described as follows by anthropologist Dr. Jane Goodall.

"Having no cultural restrictions, these female primates will perform coitu from 20 to 50 times a day during the peak week of estrus if necessary they will flirt, solicit, present and stimulate the male in order to obtain successive coitus. They will "consort" with one male for several days until he is exhausted, and take up with another. They will emerge from periods of heat totally exhausted, and in many cases the males who have repulsed them.

"Noble tells us that some authorities believe there’s no such thing as the new impotence. Among them is noted sexologist, Dr. Alfred Kinsey, who states simply that "more men are balking," that is, "more men are using women for the sole purpose of sexual pleasure rather than of procreation." Noble speculates that the future might hold more terrifying changes in human sexual patterns than impotence. Flower Arranging

The delicate art of Japanese flower arranging will be explained and demonstrated by Mrs. Aiko Sturdevant, local expert on the subject, in two special programs at Penrose Public Library.

A past president of Ikebana International, and a member of Zonta International, Mrs. Sturdevant is a certified teacher of the Ohara School of Japanese flower arranging.

The emphasis of the Ohara School is on living objects used as vehicles of the art, in close imitation of nature.

The demonstrations will be presented at 7:30 p.m. Thursday (Nov. 9) and at 1:30 p.m. (Nov. 10) in the Palmer Wing of the Library, 21 W. Kiowa St. Both demonstrations are open to the public at no charge.

Mrs. Sturdevant, whose recent flower display at the library was very well received, gives lessons on flower arranging in her home. She is also a hair stylist for the Colorado Springs Opera Association.

Parking Areas Defined

Ed Adams, Chief of the University of Colorado Police Force, has decreed the parking will take place in designated areas only. He has drawn up a map, which if you look closely, is vaguely reminiscent of the "mental institution" at which you are currently enrolled. On this map, you will note, are the various parking areas in which you are to put your cars. Students, if the craters, ditches and claymore mines are missing, in Lot A, please pardon my error, I was trying not to get too technical. All students who do not have Staff Stickers on their cars, have the privilege of parking in Lot A, this is the area on the map which is shaded. It is located in reality behind the Psych-Art Building, bordered by Cragmor Road, on the South, Cragmor Village to the East, and the "Big Ditch" to the Northwest. Please drive slowly through Lot A, your frame and shock absorbers will be indebted to you for the remainder of their short lives. Those of you with Parking Stickers (Green) on the rear windshield of your car, may park in the area designated by the letter on your parking sticker, to wit: those with "C" may park in Lot "C", "D" stickers, must park in "D", etc. It is to your benefit and advantage, that you park in designated areas, for remember, the "Blue Meanies" will get you if you don't watch out!
Libraries are humdrum havens from rainstorms inhabited by row upon row of dusty volumes, right? Wrong.
The trend of today's libraries is away from the cold. "...the people file...," says Mayall. In his new release, "Moving On," is yet one more facet of his love for the blues.

Man-Made World

Twenty-two Colorado Springs area and Pueblo teachers are studying a new science program at the University of Colorado at Colorado Springs which is designed to introduce high school students to many of the problems created by man's technology.

The program, "The Man-Made World," is directed by Dr. Jack E. Sherman, UCCS associate professor of education, who says "it helps students ask the right kinds of questions about science and technology and helps them develop the skills necessary to relate technology to their own experiences."

The service program was originated by the Polytechnic Institute of Brooklyn and is supported by a $12,089 grant from the National Science Foundation to Prof. Sherman. The class is meeting on a Friday and Saturday each month at UCCS during the academic year.

Instructors, in addition to Dr. Sherman, are Armin Graber, Cheyenne Mountain High School physics teacher and UCCS physics instructor, and John McMinn, Widefield High School earth science teacher and UCCS geology instructor. Graber and McMinn have taught "The Man-Made World" course in their schools and are members of the Western State Implementation Center, located at the University of Denver.

Sherman said the teachers will study such areas as decision making, modeling, systems, logic circuits, simulation, and computers during their class meetings.
