An Environmental Teach-In, billed as EARTH DAY, will be observed at the Colorado Springs Center of the University of Colorado as part of a nationwide campus program Wednesday, April 22, under plans being drafted by six faculty members and five students. The program here will focus public attention on local issues of environmental quality, contamination, population and resources.

STUDENTS AND TEACHERS INVOLVED

Drafting plans for the local teach-in are Dr. Jacquelyn Beyer, associate professor of geography; Dr. Robert J. Sherman, assistant professor of biology; Dr. Donald S. Gage, associate professor of electrical engineering; Dr. Allen M. Schoffstall, assistant professor of chemistry; Dr. Jack E. Sherman, assistant professor of education; Dr. Donald H. Van Horn, associate professor of biology; Roy Mason, a senior; Roy Larson and Pat Grove, juniors, and Rowen Geiger, a freshman.

VARIETY PROGRAM WILL INTEREST ALL

The program will include lectures, panel discussions and films, and efforts are being made to interest high schools and community groups in the Colorado Springs area in participating. The suggestion for such a national observance originated in the offices of Sen. Gaylord Nelson of Wisconsin and Rep. Paul McCloskey of California.

Since then it has become essentially a student movement with headquarters in Washington, D. C. "The campus is the focus, but the goal is involvement of all those who want information about local situations and who want to participate in the long-range and continuing program designed to declare a truce in the war on nature," Dr. Beyer, planning coordinator, said. "We all breath the same air and depend on the same earth for survival.

"George must do the job. There is no other answer. There is talent here, there are specific local problems and local concerns and we have a contribution to make to the whole."

Environmental Teach-In, Inc. in Washington has received inquiries about the program from more than 500 colleges and high schools.

Dr. Beyer said the program here is planned because we are part, not only of a wider university community, sharing knowledge, problems and obligations.
Cragmor Campus Bookstore announces that the cash rebate period for 1969-1970 will be from Monday, May 11 through Friday, May 15, during regular bookstore hours. Only the pink cash register receipts will be good for this rebate period. We would also like to remind our patrons to save the white cash register receipts now being used for next year's cash rebate period.

Bookstore Features Earth Day Selection
In cooperation with the "EARTH DAY" committee here, the bookstore has set aside a special section of books on the problems of the environment, population, and pollution which coordinate with the "Teach in" beginning April 22.

Advance Notice of CUC May 23 Picnic
The Annual CUC Picnic will be held this year on May 23 from 11:00 a.m. until 11:00 p.m. at the Garden of the Gods Chuck Wagon. Fun and games will include a student-faculty baseball game, volleyball, and an egg fight. Music and dancing will highlight the evening from 7:00 until 11:00 p.m. The charge for students will be 50c, for adult visitors $1.00, and for all children under 12, 25c. It is going to be an "all-you-can-eat" affair with hamburgers, hot dogs, beans, pop and watermelon being served. Plan on coming for a full day of fun and food.

Captain Bernstein, CUC Center Student, Presented Meritorious Service Medal
Captain Alan Bernstein, Jr. was recently presented the Meritorious Service Medal during a ceremony held in the North American Air Defense Command's Underground Cheyenne Mountain Complex. He received the award for outstanding service to the United States as a space object identification analyst in Norad's Space Defense Center from September 1966 to April 1970. A graduate from the University of Rochester, N.Y., Captain Bernstein is presently attending the University of Colorado in Colorado Springs where he is working toward his master's degree.

Reflections of Spain II: A Comparative View of Spanish Colonial Painting. This collection includes works from New Mexico to Bolivia, drawn from the Frank Barrows Freyer Collection of Peruvian Paintings of the Denver Art Museum; Central and South American examples from the International Institute of Iberian Colonial Art in Santa Fe, New Mexico; and New Mexican retablos from the Taylor Museum's own collection.

Running through April 30 is a group of collages by James Sicner. This exciting exhibition is by a young Denver artist who has had many solo shows in this country, Europe and Mexico.

Net Television Devotes Wednesday's Earth Day Programming to Relevant Issues & Events
Earth Day will receive continuous coverage by National Education Television from 5:00 to 10:00 p.m. It will feature live pickups Coast to Coast of teach-ins, marches, and environmental exhibits among other programs devoted to the subject of the preservation of our ecology. These shows will be carried locally only on Cablevision Channels 6 and 7.

"Return of the Sea Elephants"
Thursday, April 23, 5:30 p.m., Channel 13
After becoming almost extinct some 60 years ago, the homo sapiens elephant has found refuge on the island of Guadalupe. Here Jacques Costeau and the men of the Calypso study the sea elephant's life habit.

"World's Fair in Japan"
Friday, April 24, 6:30 p.m., Channel 5
Take a tour of some of the highlights of Expo 70 in Japan. With Edwin Newman visit the U.S. Pavilion which blends new and old America, and the Soviet Union Pavilion which marks the 100th anniversary of Lenin's birth.