GAL FAGANEL is an award-winning cello performer, an acclaimed teacher and recording artist, and a conductor. He is currently an associate professor and string area head at the University of Northern Colorado, where he greatly enjoys teaching cello, coaching chamber music, and occasionally conducting. With a doctorate from the University of Southern California, he was previously the principal cellist of the Phoenix Symphony. He has recorded for Astrum, Naxos, Potenza Music, Pucihar Music, and many radio stations. His performances have been praised in the press for “exceptionally sensitive interpretation,” his “powerful and beautiful tone,” and “brilliant virtuosity and youthful vigor.”

Cellist HEIDI MAUSBACH, a graduate of the Conservatory of Music at the University of Cincinnati, has enjoyed a fulfilling and diverse orchestral career throughout the US. She has played with the Naples Philharmonic, the Florida Orchestra, and the Minnesota Opera before moving to Fort Collins in 2000. Currently, she is assistant principal of the Fort Collins Symphony and the Cheyenne Symphony. Heidi is a busy freelance musician frequently playing in Denver and surrounding areas with Pro Musica Colorado, the Front Range Chamber Players and Colorado Bach Ensemble. She enjoys teaching and offers lessons at her private studio and also at Front Range Community College which will soon offer a continuing ed. Group Cello class for adults. Heidi is a founding member of Just Chamber Music, a local summer festival for young aspiring music students and coaches chamber music during the year at The Chamber Music Academy through Off the Hook Arts. In her free time, you can find Heidi on the Spring Creek Trail walking her dog or kayaking with her kids and enjoying Colorado.

CHARLES C. TUCKER, a native of Boulder, Colorado, leads a dual life as attorney and cellist. In his law practice, Charles C. Tucker, PLLC in Fort Collins, he focuses on estate planning, probate, business law, and real property. His cello practice has taken him through undergraduate and graduate music degrees at the University of New Mexico and Yale School of Music and several decades as a musician and teacher.

Charles studied chamber music with the Tokyo Quartet and pianist Boris Berman. He played chamber music concerts at the 92nd Street Y and Merkin Hall in New York City. He was principal cellist of the Naples (Florida) Philharmonic and performed five summers each with the Santa Fe Opera and the Grand Teton Music Festival.
