Hot off the Presses: Northeast Colorado Community Well-being Report

We're excited to announce the release of the 2026 Northeast Colorado Intersections Report: Pursuing Community Well-Being. The report is a systems-level synthesis of hundreds of data points and community perspectives across Logan, Morgan, Phillips, Sedgwick, Washington, and Yuma counties. It offers a shared story to help strengthen the network of support and voices for advocacy for regional well-being.

IBE developed the report in collaboration with the NoCo Foundation and CSU's Office of Engagement and Extension, Geospatial Centroid, and Division of Marketing and Communications. We applied systems thinking to surface patterns, build shared understanding across sectors and jurisdictions, and translate insights into collective action.

The report builds from the success of a similar effort for Northern Colorado in 2024. IBE is supporting regional well-being partnerships and opportunities in other regions across Colorado: Learn more about our Living Regions Lab.
