Program Notes

for

Around the Clock Suite

“Ten Past Two”

Early afternoon and you walk along the avenue. You look in the shop windows and are fascinated by the glitter and the new styles. You stop at one window and a gown—shimmering with sequins—makes you tingle with delight. Then you walk again—taking in the displays made just for you.

“Beige Nocturne”

Evening. You are at your vanity—choosing your perfume from the array of bottles— There is a faint suggestion of a waltz but only for a fleeting instant. The beige melody brings you back to the fragrance of the evening mood.

“Harpicide at Midnight”

The dance begins and the rhythm grows more and more insistent. The melody is lost and finally there is only the pulse of dancing feet.

“The Morning After”

The alarm clock. You stretch and wish it could be ignored. Then you see the sun striking through the windows and the day begins in clear melody.
